Gender in Indian Literature & Film

Programme: B.Tech.
Course: GILF

Year: IV year
Credits: 3

Semester: Even
Hours: 40

Course Context and Overview (100 words):

This course will introduce students to some of the ongoing debates in India and the West over the representations of gender roles/identities in literature, film, and the media, and over our evolving understandings of sexual norms, and sexual orientation. Close readings of works of literature and cinema will help us rethink notions about gender and to relate these to key intellectual and social movements. Besides focusing on the specific conventions of literary and filmic narratives, we will also think about various forms of masculinity, femininity, and their intersection with other vectors of identity and belonging, such as caste, class, religion, ethnicity, sexuality and nationality.

Prerequisites Courses: N/A

Course outcomes (COs):

On completion of this course, the students will have the ability to:
CO1 Understand the gender system as a system of power (biology and culture: gender and sex; masculinities and femininities; gender order and gender segregation)
CO2 Define concepts such as Domination and Hegemony; Ideology; Agency; Sexuality; Body, and Embodiment
CO3 Examine the history of gender relations in India as one of reform and struggle that includes overlapping intersectional struggles over rights of citizenship and belonging
CO4 Analyze representations of gender in Indian literature, film, and media
CO5 Appreciate the role of the Humanities in understanding the objects of our desires, our social lives; learn to read films and literature critically and empathetically
